CHELSEA PIERS FILMS AND STUDIOS

As part of $100 million sports and entertainment complex development which houses Manhattan's largest production facility, renovations achieved a stronger setting for filming of feature films and TV series. The 300,000 SF production facility includes a 200,000 SF sound-stage and supporting production studios.

AD's team focus centered on addressing sound isolation issues and intrusive noise control for the sound stage. In addition to providing sound testing and posing specific design recommendations for upgrades, AD's team also addressed room acoustics, and air conditioning system noise control associated with upgrades to film and television studios where shows such as Law and Order are created.
